Washington, June 9. — Secretary Bryan's personal statement on the reason for his resignation, issued this afternoon, contends the difficulties between Germany and the United States should be investigated by an international commission and that Americans should be warned to keep off belligerent ships or those carrying ammunition through the danger zone.

At the White House Secretary Tumulty stated positively that no comment would be made on Mr. Bryan's statement.

Just after two o'clock this afternoon the new American note to Germany, which caused the cabinet crisis culminating in Secretary Bryan's resignation, started on its way to Berlin. It will be given out for publication in morning papers of Friday.

Simultaneously William Jennings Bryan's resignation as secretary of state took effect and he gave out a statement of his attitude. His statement reads in part:

MR. BRYAN'S STATEMENT.
"My reason for resigning is clearly stated in my letter of resignation; namely, that I may employ, as a private citizen, the means which the president does not feel at liberty to employ."

"Two of the points on which we differ, each conscientious in his conviction, are, first, as to the suggestion of investigation by an international commission and, second, as to warning Americans against traveling on belligerent vessels with cargoes of ammunition."

"I believe that this nation should frankly state to Germany that we are willing to apply in this case the principles which we are bound by treaty to apply to disputes between the United States and thirty countries with which we have made treaties, providing for investigation of all disputes of every character and nature. These treaties, negotiated under this administration, make war practically impossible between this country and these governments representing nearly three fourths of all the people of the world.

"No treaty was actually entered into with Germany, but I cannot see that that should stand in the way when both nations endorsed the principle. I do not know whether Germany would accept the offer, but our country should, in my judgment, make the offer."

The second point of difference is as to the course which should be pursued in regard to Americans traveling on belligerent ships or with cargoes of ammunition. Why should an American citizen be permitted to involve his country in war by traveling upon a belligerent ship when he knows that the ship will pass through a danger zone.

"IT IS A VERY ONE SIDED CITIZENSHIP THAT COMPELS A GOVERNMENT TO GO TO WAR OVER A CITIZEN'S RIGHTS AND YET RELIEVES THE CITIZENS OF ALL OBLIGATIONS TO CONSIDER HIS NATION'S WELFARE."

"I do not know just how far the president can legally go in actually preventing Americans from traveling on belligerent ships, but even if the government could not legally prevent citizens from traveling on belligerent ships it could and in my judgment, should earnestly advise American citizens not to risk themselves or the peace of their country, and I have no doubt that these warnings would be heeded."

"I think, too, that American passenger ships should be prohibited from carrying ammunition. The lives of passengers ought not to be endangered by cargoes of ammunition, whether that danger comes from possible explosions from within or from possible attacks from without. PASSENGERS AND AMMUNITION SHOULD NOT TRAVEL TOGETHER."

Washington, June 9.—After two years and three months as secretary of state of the United States—a little more than half of the Wilson administration — William Jennings Bryan today returned to private life. His departure from the cabinet under sensational circumstances, because he could not join in the approval of the note to Germany or reconcile its principles to the cause which he declared to be nearest his heart—"The prevention of war"—developed today not only a most unusual situation in the domestic politics of the United States but a grave turn in its foreign policy.

Staunch in his advocacy of peace and firmly set against any communication to Germany which might involve the United States in war, Mr. Bryan found himself opposed not only by the president but by a majority of the members of the cabinet in the methods of dealing with the situation.

The president, in his letter expressing regret over Mr. Bryan's resignation, said he was not separating himself from Mr. Bryan in the objects sought in the present crisis, but only in the method by which they were accomplished.

Mr. Wilson and his advisers are equally anxious to prevent war, but in asserting the rights of the United States they hold it absolutely necessary to affirm the American position in such a way as to leave no doubt abroad of the firm intention of the United States to enforce its rights if necessary to secure protection for American citizens on the high seas.

Officials and diplomatists who have followed the situation closely pointed out that the president stood with Mr. Bryan in the doing of everything possible to prevent war, but believed it necessary also to be ready for any eventualities in case Germany refused to acquiesce in the American point of view as to neutral rights on the high seas and continued her attacks on American lives and vessels.

Through his friends it is learned that Mr. Bryan intends to continue his political support of the president. The note to Germany should reach Ambassador Gerard the latter part of this week for presentation to the German Foreign Office. An answer is not expected from the German Foreign Office for at least a week thereafter.

Secretary Bryan was the recipient of many telegrams expressing regret for his resignation and commending him for the manner in which he submitted it. His resignation was unexpected in official and diplomatic Washington generally. Twice before, it is now known, Mr. Bryan was willing to place before the president his resignation, but each time the president succeeded in bringing the secretary to his own point of view.

Washington, June 9.—Mr. Bryan told his colleagues and friends today as they gathered about him in farewell, that his affection for President Wilson was unchanged, and that he knew the president felt as warmly toward him.

Firmly believing he can advance the cause of peace outside of official life and build up a sentiment in the United States that will assist the president in maintaining friendly relations with all nations, Mr. Bryan today went back to private life.

The resignation of the secretary of state of the United States over a difference of a vital question of foreign policy—itsself unusual in the annals of American history—was most dramatically touched by numerous manifestations of personal regard for Mr. Bryan and his own emotion at leaving the office he held so dearly.

Tears stood in his eyes while friends commended his courageous fight for principles and his determination to eliminate himself rather than continue in the cabinet as a possible embarrassment to the president.

The story of his fight to sway the president's judgment on the method of dealing with the situation with Germany is as yet untold. For three days, from Saturday until Monday, the president had Mr. Bryan's resignation under consideration.

Reports that Secretary Daniels had resigned, or would do so, were current today but were flatly denied on all sides. The report, it was said, grew out of the well known friendship and long intimacy in national politics of Mr. Bryan and Mr. Daniels. As a matter of fact, nine members of the cabinet stood solidly for the president's position as expressed in the note. Mr. Daniels was with those who differed from the secretary of state.

This afternoon Mr. Bryan called at the White House. For 15 minutes the president and Mr. Bryan talked, exchanging words of farewell. The

SECRETARY BRYAN RESIGNS POST RATHER THAN SIGN GERMAN NOTE; WILSON, DETERMINED, ACCEPTS

BRYAN'S LETTER OF RESIGNATION DELIVERED TO PRESIDENT WILSON

"My Dear Mr. President:

"It is with sincere regret that I have reached the conclusion that I should return to you the commission of secretary of state, with which you honored me at the beginning of your administration.

"Obedience to your sense of duty and actuated by the highest motives, you have prepared for transmission to the German government a note in which I cannot join without violating what I deem to be an obligation to my country, and the issue involved is of such moment that to remain a member of the cabinet would be as unfair to you as it would be to the cause which is nearest my heart, namely, the prevention of war.

"I, therefore, respectfully tender my resignation, to take effect when this note is sent, unless you prefer an earlier hour.

"Alike desirous of reaching a peaceful solution of the problem arising out of the use of submarines against merchantmen, we find ourselves differing irreconcilably as to the methods which should be employed.

"It falls to your lot to speak officially for the nation; I consider it to be none the less my duty as a private citizen to promote the end which you have in view, by means which you do not feel at liberty to use.

"In severing the intimate and pleasant relations which have existed between us during the past two years, permit me to acknowledge the profound satisfaction which it has given me to be associated with you in the important work which has come before the state department, and to thank you for the courtesies extended.

"With the heartiest good wishes for your personal welfare and for the success of your administration, I am, my dear Mr. President,

"Very truly yours,
"WILLIAM J. BRYAN."

WILSON ACCEPTS PROMPTLY, BUT SORROWFULLY

"My Dear Mr. Bryan:

"I accept your resignation only because you insist upon its acceptance; and I accept it with much more than deep regret, with a feeling of personal sorrow. Our two years of close association have been very delightful to me. Our judgments have accorded practically in every matter of official duty and of public policy until now; your support of the work and purposes of the administration has been generous and loyal beyond praise; your devotion to the duties of your great office and your eagerness to take advantage of every great opportunity for service it offered, has been an example to the rest of us; you have earned our affectionate admiration and friendship. Even now we are not separated in the object we seek, but only in the method by which we seek it.

"It is for these reasons my feeling about your retirement from the secretaryship of state goes so much deeper than regret. I sincerely deplore it. Our objects are the same and we ought to pursue them together. I yield to your desire only because I must, and wish to bid you Godspeed in the parting. We shall continue to work for the same causes even when we do not work in the same way.

"With affectionate regard, sincerely yours,
"WOODROW WILSON."

SECRETARY WOULD AVERT WAR

States He Retires From Office Because He Is Not Able Conscientiously to Sign the Communication Which the Chief Magistrate Is About to Dispatch to Berlin—Holds Attachment of His Signature to Note Would Be Unfair to Cause Nearest His Heart, "the Prevention of War."

Washington, June 9.—William J. Bryan has resigned as secretary of state and his resignation has been accepted by President Wilson, to take effect today.

Mr. Bryan retires from the Wilson administration because he is not able conscientiously to sign the note which the president is about to dispatch to Germany. To attach his signature to this communication would, in the opinion of Mr. Bryan, be unfair to the cause nearest his heart—namely, the prevention of war.

At the direction of President Wilson, Robert Lansing, acting secretary of state, has signed the note. It has been rushed into the hands of state department experts to be coded and is now on its way to Berlin.

The note to which Mr. Bryan was unable to subscribe firmly restates the position of the United States, reiterates President Wilson's previous demands, and calls upon Germany for a prompt expression whether or not she intends to abide by the principles of international law.

Four developments stand out impressively among those which Washington believes will come from the day's remarkable occurrence: First, that the country will be divided on the question of President Wilson's policy toward Germany; second, that there will be a real awakening in Germany to the determination of the president and the seriousness of the situation confronting them as a result of this government's demands; third, that there will likely be a split in the Democratic party, and fourth, that there will be a change in the administration's general foreign policy to vigorous assertion of American rights.

Many officials in Washington also expect to see a clean cut issue between President Wilson and Mr. Bryan on the question of the national defenses, with the probable retirement of Josephus Daniels, Mr. Bryan's friend, from the cabinet as secretary of the navy.

Effect on National Crisis.

Startling as was the withdrawal of Mr. Bryan from the administration, it was the effect of this action upon the immediate crisis between the United States and Germany over which Washington officials are chiefly concerned.

One sentence in Mr. Bryan's letter of resignation to the president was puzzling. This sentence read: "Obedient to your sense of duty and actuated by the highest motives, you have prepared for transmission to the German government a note in which

I can not join without violating what I deem to be an obligation to my country, and the issue involved is of such moment that to remain a member of the cabinet would be as unfair to you as it would be to the cause which is nearest my heart, namely, the prevention of war."

In some quarters this sentence was construed as a plain intimation that Secretary Bryan feared that one of the possibilities of the note, which President Wilson has ordered forwarded to Germany is war. The other construction was that Secretary Bryan feared that his acquiescence in the president's refusal to discuss the Lusitania facts with the Berlin government would be a death blow to arbitration principles for which Mr. Bryan has contended and which he has embodied in twenty peace treaties with foreign governments.

While the correspondence between the president and Mr. Bryan is marked with the utmost cordiality on the president's part, in fact with manifestations of deep regret and sorrow, there was one sentence in Secretary Bryan's letter which indicates that he will not hesitate to use all means at his command to prevent a rupture with Germany. The inference seems to be that Mr. Bryan would throw the weight of his great personal power against any such contingency.

Serious Phase of Resignation.

On the other hand, President Wilson makes it plain that he has accepted Secretary Bryan's resignation only because Mr. Bryan has insisted, and that he expects the co-operation of Mr. Bryan in accomplishing not only this government's present object with Germany, but the other policies of the administration. These are the president's exact words: "We shall continue to work for the same causes even when we do not work in the same way."

The most serious phase of the Bryan resignation, so far as it affects the German situation, seems to be the possibility of dividing the country in regard to President Wilson's policy. The fear expressed in Washington is that Mr. Bryan's stand will give rise to a difference of opinion in regard to the president's note. Such a division will, of course, not only add to President Wilson's tribulations, but will greatly weaken the strength of this government's representations in Germany.

Many of Mr. Bryan's friends are already busy. Representative Buchanan of Illinois has undertaken to line or organize labor up against any possibility of war with Germany, and other supporters of Mr. Bryan are at work in other directions. Of course, if Germany feels that the United States is divided against itself on this issue, the Berlin authorities will be certain to adopt a less conciliatory course.

On the other hand, the retirement of Mr. Bryan is sure to create a profound impression in Berlin. Official reports received here recently have indicated that the Kaiser's advisers were not alive to the seriousness of the controversy with the United States.

The retirement of Secretary Bryan will throw a flood of light upon the determination of President Wilson and is bound to have a good effect unless a feeling against the administration's course immediately asserts itself in this country.

Bryan's Influence.

Bryan's retirement was said to be due to his overthrow as a force in shaping the administration's foreign policy. Whatever may be said of President Wilson's disposition to conduct his administration in his own way, Mr. Bryan's influence has operated powerfully in determining the policy of this government until recently. Mr. Bryan as an adviser on foreign affairs has been superseded by Secretary of War Garrison and Secretary of the Interior Lane. These are the two members of the cabinet who have from the start asserted the necessity of pursuing a vigorous policy not only with regard to Germany, but in the case of Mexico. They have encountered the opposition of Mr. Bryan from the start. There have been many tests of strength in the cabinet. The president has seemed at times to oscillate between one group and the other, but with the arising of the German situation he took his stand firmly on the side of those who favor a vigorous assertion of what he believed to be America's rights.

PEACE-LOVING CABINET MEMBER WHO RESIGNED

When this stand of the president became known it seemed certain that the parting of the ways between Mr. Bryan and Mr. Wilson must come eventually. The only thing which surprised Washington was that it came so soon and that Mr. Bryan selected as the occasion for his retirement a great crisis in the affairs of the American government.

The difference between Secretary Bryan and the president began even before the dispatch of the president's first note to Germany. When the Falaba case first arose, Mr. Bryan was in favor of applying the principles embodied in his peace treaties of investigating the facts through a commission. The president opposed this suggestion, and later the issue was joined when all of Germany's submarine offenses came before the cabinet to be made the basis of a single note.

MR. LANSING TAKES HOLD

Washington, June 9.—Robert Lansing of New York, counselor of the state department, will continue as acting secretary, at least until the diplomatic interchanges with Germany are concluded. Mr. Lansing for years represented the United States in intricate international disputes, and is looked upon as one of the foremost authorities on international law in the country. His first appointment as counsel for the United States was in March, 1892, two years after his marriage to Miss Eleanor Foster, daughter of John W. Foster, secretary of state under President Harrison. Mr. Lansing was then made associate counsel for this government in the Bering sea fur seal arbitration.

Mr. Lansing was counsel for the Mexican and Chinese legations in Washington in 1894 and 1895, and in 1896 Secretary of State Olney selected him as counsel for the United States before the Bering sea claims commission. He represented private interests before the Canadian joint high commission in 1898 and 1899, and in 1900 and 1901 he was again counsel for the Mexican and Chinese legations. Mr. Lansing went to London in 1903 to represent the United States before the Alaskan boundary commission, and in 1905 he represented private parties in the Venezuelan asphalt disputes. Then came his retention as counsel for this government in the Atlantic fisheries arbitration at The Hague. He was a government delegate to the fur seal conference in Washington in 1911. Just before his elevation to his present post he was in Washington as agent for this government before the American-British claims arbitration tribunal.

DATES BACK TO FALABA DIFFICULTY

Washington, June 9.—Prediction is made that the break between President Wilson and Secretary Bryan will project itself far into the politics of the future. Republican leaders declare it will result in as wide a breach in the Democratic party as the circumstance that led to the downfall of the Republicans in 1912.

Mr. Wilson and Mr. Bryan came together as a result of one of those happenings in politics that sometimes unite men mutually antagonistic in habit, thought and principle. The final separation of the two men is equally dramatic, coming as it does at a time when an international crisis threatens, and portending for a certainty a desperate contest between determined men and factions.

No one in Washington doubts that from this time forth Mr. Bryan will speak his mind freely. Democratic leaders here admit that Mr. Bryan has a large personal following. They will not be surprised if Mr. Bryan is a candidate for the presidential nomination with "peace and prohibition" as his issues.

Secretary Bryan explained to representatives of the press, who were received by him at his home, that the differences between himself and the president as to the policy to be pursued in dealing with Germany dated back to the sinking of the Falaba. He insisted that differences were purely as to the matter of policy and that there were no political differences, and intimated that he saw no reason for any political differences to grow out of the incident.

Mr. Bryan explained that he would make a detailed formal statement of the points of difference between himself and the president as soon as the note to Germany is dispatched. He was asked whether other cabinet members were opposed to the form of the note, and said that he did not care to discuss that and asked that the question be withdrawn. He added that he could not speak for other members of the cabinet.

Mr. Bryan said his statement would make everything clear. He said that he and the president had realized for some time that the matter would end as it has, that the differences of policy were irreconcilable. "The president has done what he was compelled to do believing as he did," said the secretary. "I don't see how he could have done otherwise, believing as he did. We were both striving for the same thing. We differed only as to the methods to be employed."

Mr. Bryan was asked what his plans were, and he said he had made none for the present, that he would remain in Washington for some time. The

Mr. Bryan's Resignation

The resignation of Mr. Bryan as Secretary of State did not come as an entire surprise to those who have watched closely the developments of the discussion with Germany following the sinking of the Lusitania.

Both President Wilson and Mr. Bryan are peace advocates, the latter being perhaps more pronounced in his views than the former.

There is no difference between the president and Mr. Bryan as to the ultimate purpose. The notes exchanged are exceedingly cordial, and bear abundant evidence of the high purposes and the friendly feeling of the two statesmen, as well as the high regard each holds for the other.

There is no doubt of Mr. Bryan's intention to support the administration in its efforts to bring about a peaceful solution of the problems which now confront it.

It is only a difference as to the means to be adopted to bring about the end sought—ultimate peace—which has caused Mr. Bryan to resign from the cabinet.

The whole matter seems plain in view of this paragraph in Mr. Bryan's letter to the president:

"It falls to your lot to speak officially for the nation. I consider it to be none the less my duty to endeavor as a private citizen to promote the end which you have in view, by means which you do not feel at liberty to use."

The services which Mr. Bryan has contributed to the achievements of the present administration have been of great value and, feeling that he cannot agree with the means to be employed now in the efforts to bring about a peaceful solution of the controversy with Germany, it is better for the nation, better for the administration and will tend more toward the accomplishment of the end desired by both the president and Mr. Bryan, for the latter to work in his own way, than it would be to surrender his own views and to allow his own energies to remain dormant.

Mr. Bryan can now work for a peaceful solution according to his own ideas and assist the administration in bringing about the desired ends by resort to means which the president does not "feel at liberty to use," and which Mr. Bryan could not use either if he remained a member of the cabinet.

The administration in the work of the hour retains, rather than loses, Mr. Bryan's assistance. Both men have sacrificed their personal desires to public duty. Each remains true to his principles and both will work in different ways to bring about the end desired by both and by the great majority of Americans.

Donahey Was Too 'Previous.'

When Governor Willis asserted that one announcement given to the public by State Auditor Donahey was a little "previous" he was entirely justified by the facts.

The governor is going to San Francisco as the representative of the state of Ohio at the big exposition. It is entirely proper that the chief executive should visit the big show out on the Pacific Coast and that he should do so in his official capacity. The state of Ohio should be represented at the exposition—it should be officially represented. That feature of the duty Ohio owes to the exposition might be, in a measure, provided for by the commission, which the state has created to assist in the exposition management and to look after the Ohio buildings and exhibits.

There is yet another capacity in which the state should appear at the exposition and that is as a visitor and, if not the only way in which that duty can be discharged, certainly the only proper way is for the chief executive of the state to officially visit the exposition.

While the people do not want that official visit to be unappropriately showy and costly, they do not want it to be a "two by four" affair that would make Ohio appear cheap and penurious. The people of the state want the chief executive to visit the fair and to make the trip in a manner fitting the mission and the occasion and have made provision to meet the expenses.

It cannot be presumed that Governor Willis has any intention of converting an official visit to the exposition into a political junket for his own private benefit and in publicly admonishing the governor that he must not do so the state auditor not only was decidedly "previous," but exhibited a personal animosity or jealousy which will not meet with the approval of the people of the state.

State Auditor Donahey has done and is doing many good things in the interest of the people and it is to be regretted that he, in this instance, has so far overstepped the limits of his jurisdiction as to cast a cloud of suspicion on his heretofore clear claim of good intentions.

The "break" of Mr. Donahey appears now to be the result of a bitter partisan feeling. His strength with the people of the state is largely due to the impression that the state auditor was not controlled by any partisan feeling in his official work.

Poetry For Today

UP-HILL.

Does the road wind uphill all the day?
Yes, to the very end.
Will the day's journey take the whole long day?
From morn to night, my friend.

But is there for the night a resting place?
A roof for when the slow, dark hours begin.

May not the darkness hide it from my face?
You cannot miss that inn.

Shall I meet other wayfarers at night?
Those who have gone before.

Then must I knock, or call when just in sight?
They will not keep you standing at that door.

Shall I find comfort, travel-sore and weak
Of labor you shall find the sum.

Will there be bed for me and all who weak?
Yes, beds for all who come.

Fooley!

A lying pup is Oswald Cruise, For, when he takes a bracer, He claims he merely drinks the booze Because he likes the chase.

Correct.

"Conscience always worries a man and tells him that he has done wrong after he has done something that he should not have done," observed the old fogey.

"Then every married woman's middle name is Conscience," remarked the grouch.

Fact.

Man's good intent a short life has, It's prone to dissolution, And few things are as brittle as A well meant resolution.

Mean Brute!

"Mr. Henn dislocated his jaw while he was yawning," said Mrs. Gabb. "Isn't that odd?"

"Not so odd," growled Mr. Gabb. "I suppose he was listening to his wife's chatter."

Betcha!

"The lark can warble some," said Ben. "At singing it is great. But give me the woodpecker when it comes to digging bait."

Paw Knows Everything.

Willie—Paw, what is a marriage certificate?
Paw—A ticket to a twenty year lecture course, my son.

Maw—Willie, you go to bed.

The Wise Fool.

"Truth lies at the bottom of a well," quoth the sage.

"Not at the bottom of an oil well," corrected the fool.

You Know Them.

Some cheerful givers, it is true, Give quickly and give twice, But there are cheerful givers who Give nothing but advice.

That's Right.

Anyway, Luke McLuke has never accused a corn fed of standing twice in the same place to make a shadow.—Coldwater (O.) Chronicle.

Our Daily Special.

There is no closed season for shooting husbands.

Luke McLuke Says

Some people are so certain that salvation is free that they never think of putting anything in the collection box when it is passed around in church.

The first time a woman marries she wants a prince who lives in a castle and looks like a Greek god. But the second time she marries she wants an ordinary human being who is a good provider.

After a bride has been married long enough to know how to turn a pork chop into a clinker by frying it in a skillet she wants to sit down and write a cook book and make some publisher wealthy.

If some of the young men could hear the way some of the princesses sass their mothers around the house the young men would remain single for a mighty long time.

One reason why wives are called better halves is because they usually have a hard time digging up a quarter.

Every time a man picks up a woman's magazine and looks at the fashion plate he decides that if his wife ever got so she looked like that he would trade her off for a nickel's worth of stogies.

Another reason for the alarming number of unhappy marriages is that too many girls get hitched up before they are fully competent to support a husband.

Some men do not know enough about quitting, and some men know too much about it.

Every now and then you see a girl who gives you the impression that she was in such a big hurry to grab the powder rag that she forgot all about grabbing the wash rag.

A woman will fasten on two big brass earrings, and hang a two pound copper chain and a string of glass pearls around her neck and slip four big bracelets on her arms and six tin rings on her fingers. Then she will go to church and contribute a dime to enlighten the poor heathens who have so little sense that they wear wire rings in their noses.

Every Now and Then

We remind you that the time to do it is NOW. We want to jog up the frail memory that remembers but present things. You said some time ago you were going to start your account here. You put it off. Several times you made the same resolution. You put it off. You can never accomplish what you do not begin. Do it NOW.

—Delay has wrecked more lives and caused more human misery than all the wars the world has ever known.

MELODY DEAFNESS.

To Those Who Are Afflicted With It Music Is Simply Noise.

Every one has heard of color blindness, but few people are aware that there is such a malady as tune deafness. It prevents those affected from appreciating music, which to the melody deaf is nothing but noise.

The most intelligent people often suffer in this way. Empress Catherine of Russia used to declare that for her music was a nerve trying din, and Napoleon I. hated any form of melody. Victor Hugo had to be coaxed by the composer who put his famous lines to music. "Are not my verses," he used to say, "sufficiently harmonious to stand without the assistance of disagreeable noises?"

Doctors say that the power to appreciate music depends upon a perfect combination of the nerves and brain. Some people's nerves readily carry musical sounds to the mind, while in others nerves impede their passage to the brain cells.

Good musicians are more often born than made. Nature has provided them with nerves which instinctively carry musical chords to the brain. That is why a good musician can memorize a tune after hearing it played over once. Every note has been clearly recorded in his brain.

Those with less sensitive musical nerves receive a dull impression of any music they may hear, and thus they are unable to remember it unless it is drummed into their brain by repeated playing.—Pearson's Weekly.

Ingenious Air Bombs.

Bombs thrown from the air are usually exploded by contact. With the Martin Hale bomb, designed specially to be dropped from aeroplanes, there is a "safety pin" which renders the bomb harmless until it has been withdrawn and until a fall of about 200 feet through the air has caused the propeller to rotate and release the firing mechanism. All destructive explosives cause damage by the actual shock of the explosion—that is, by the disturbance in the air created by the expansion of the contents of the shell, by the fragments of the shell or the bullets which it contains flying in all directions, by the fumes which may be given off on explosion and which may have a stupefying or fatal effect on people in the vicinity and by the falling of bricks and mortar displaced by the bombs.—London Mail.

English as She Is Spoke.

The professor who in his address on the correct pronunciation of English said he preferred "ofn" to "often" is on the winning side. No "pronouncing dictionary" with a reputation to lose ever sounds the "t" in the middle of such words as Christmas, mistletoe, oyster, often or chestnut. Good actors, whose duty it is to speak "trippingly on the tongue," can cite authority to support their pronunciation of banker, chief and We'n'sday. And no one who knows his way about in the elocutionary field pays any regard to the spelling of such words as "extraordinary."—London Chronicle.

GOOD JOBS FOR THE RIGHT MEN

State wide examinations are to be held by the State Civil Service Commission on the 22nd, 23rd, 24th, 25th and 26th of June, for the position of Inspector, to be employed by the State Highway Department.

For the purpose of saving expense for the candidates who desire to take this examination, it will be held in different parts of the state, at nine o'clock a. m.: on Tuesday, June 22, at Toledo, Steubenville, Zanesville and Portsmouth; at the same hour on Wednesday, June 23, in Lima, Mansfield, Canton and Gallipolis; on Thursday, June 24 examinations will be held at Tiffin, Dayton, Youngstown, Athens and Columbus; on June 25, at Cincinnati, Marion, Marietta and Cleveland; on June 26 at Washington C. H.

The State has been divided into districts and candidates may take the examination at the point most convenient and easily reached, but those receiving passing grades will be eligible for appointment only in the District in which they reside.

The pay of the position is from $3.00 to $4.00 per day, and candidates should have some experience in road building or inspection of same. A number of appointments are to be made.

Candidates desiring to take this examination should address the State Civil Service Commission at Columbus for proper application blanks, which must be filed at least three days before date of examination.

Candidates from this section of the state are assigned in District No. 3, which consists of the following counties: Adams, Brown, Butler, Clermont, Clinton, Fayette, Greene, Highland, Hamilton, Montgomery, Preble and Warren.

PROVISIONS OF THE BLACK WILL

The last will and testament of Mrs. Mary Black, has been filed for record in the local probate court, and E. J. Light is executor of the estate. The original will was made July, 1908, and a codicil bears date of October, 1909. The late home of the deceased is given to Mrs. Callie Walton. A piano, watch and chains and library also were given to Mrs. Walton.

A bed room suit and diamond earring are given to Ella Gault; one earring, portraits and opera glasses to Helen Robinson. Certain silverware and china are divided among Mrs. Walton, Ella Gault and Helen Robinson.

By the terms of the original will Ella Gault, Helen Black and Callie Walton each receive $400 in cash, and under the codicil Ella Gault is given $1,000 in cash, Ella Millet $200 and Helen Robinson $400.

BOOSTERS SPREAD THE GLAD TIDINGS ABROAD

Boosters for the Y. M. C. A. matinee races to be held June 17, occupying several automobiles, visited a number of surrounding towns Tuesday evening, tacking up banners and posters and making curbstone speeches proclaiming the event forthcoming.

Some changes were made in the plans of the boosters. The band which was to have accompanied them could not be secured at the last moment, but the trip was highly successful nevertheless. Jeffersonville, Good Hope, Greenfield, Bloomingburg, Mt. Sterling and Madison Mills were visited. The boosters were divided into two or three parties, each covering different territory.

The original plan of making night trips has been abandoned. It is probable, however, that another trip will be made this week, about Friday.

BIG STEAM SHOVEL "EATING UP" STREET

The big steam shovel, in operation on Washington avenue, is opening the eyes of local citizens as to just how rapidly excavating work for street paving may be completed.

Three or four dips of the big shovel fill a wagon and the rapidity with which the shovel is manipulated is almost unbelievable.

Crowds of citizens have been watching the operations.

NO PRIMARY FOR TOWNSHIP OFFICIALS

It has been discovered in an official communication from the state supervisor of elections that there will be no primary elections in the townships for township officers.

Any person may be nominated in the township for any office by securing a sufficient number of signers for their petition. These names of persons so nominated, will be placed upon the official ballot in the November election without any party designation and the electorate may choose from the list those for whom it desires to vote. The petitions do not have to be filed until sixty days before the election, which will be early in September.

Township and ward assessors must be nominated in the county and city this fall also, and in Chillicothe these assessors are considered as municipal officers, so they come within the primary law and their time expires on June 10th.—Chillicothe Gazette.

PETTY THIEVES AT WORK NEAR JEFFERSONVILLE

A set of new harness, valued at $20, was stolen Sunday night from the barn of Roy Allen, residing on the Jamestown pike, near Jeffersonville. The incident is merely one of a series of petty thefts which have been taking place in that vicinity during the last few days.

Friday some bed sheets were stolen from the Lemin home, near Mr. Allen's, and a number of other articles have been missed by persons living in that neighborhood. The same thief or thieves are supposed to have committed all of the thefts but the victims have no inkling of his identity.

OBTAINING AUTOS FOR BIBLE CLASS

A canvass of the membership of the Men's Bible Class of Grace church reveals the fact that there are some 75 automobiles owned by members of the class, and the committee arranging for the trip to Greenfield Sunday afternoon, June 27th, when a joint session of the classes will be held in that city, is busy calling on the members owning machines, with the result that nearly every one of those approached has enthusiastically responded, and the work is moving forward very nicely.

Those who have not yet been approached can aid the committee by voluntarily offering their machines, notifying either C. E. Lloyd, Scott Hopkins or B. E. Kelley.

It is expected that 50 to 75 machines will be in line for the trip. The Greenfield class comes to this city Sunday afternoon, June 20th.

JEFF NOW HAS A "REGULAR" POSTMAN

Jeffersonville now has a regular postman delivering within the town limits, and, so far as is known, has the distinction of being the smallest city in Ohio at least having a regular municipal mail delivery system.

Postmaster Robbins has received notice from the government that the office of mail carrier at Jeffersonville is to be made permanent. Will Reid, brother of Attorney C. A. Reid of this city, has been delivering the mail at Jeffersonville for nearly three years, but has been known only as an "experimental" mail carrier. Now Mr. Reid is a "regular."

ACCUSED MEN MUST FACE GRAND JURY

1915 DOG LICENSE TAGS ARE REQUIRED

Mayor Coffey calls attention to the fact that the 1914 dog license tags have expired and that the 1915 license is now required, beginning June first.

The administration makes it plain that the dog license law will be enforced and the dog catcher is even now engaged in rounding up delinquents.

MIAMI ATHLETIC STAR RECEIVES DIPLOMA

Frank Reed, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Reed, graduates with the B. A. degree, from Miami University at the commencement, held Thursday, June the tenth.

Throughout his entire college course young Reed has been a leading Miami star in athletics, having served as a member of the Athletic Board of Control, played on the varsity baseball team and the football team. As captain of the Miami football team for 1914 Reed scored success, leading the team to victory again and again through the brilliancy of his own individual play as well as his ability to direct team strategy.

In Social Circles

Misses Elizabeth and Harriette Allen delightfully entertained the Junior Queen Esther society with a Kensington, Tuesday afternoon.

The rooms were decked with large bowls of pink and white peonies and roses, a pink and white color scheme being carried out. After a delightful hour merrily hemming towels for the Olive Hill school, the girls were served with a delicious summer collation.

Victrola music added to the entertainment of the afternoon.

Assisting were Mrs. Allen, Mrs. J. A. Johnson and Mrs. Ed Pine, Sunday school teacher.

The attractive home of Mrs. Harry Rodecker, with its connecting rooms, well adapted to entertaining, was gayly enfeet Tuesday afternoon when Mrs. Rodecker and Mrs. Warren Hicks charmingly entertained twelve tables of players with the popular diversion of auction bridge.

Throughout the interior of the home a veritable wealth of roses, crimson, white and pink, in baskets, bowls and vases, bore testimony that June, the month of roses, was here, and adding to the loveliness of the elaborate decorations were exquisite baskets of mazzaguerites and ferns.

The trophy of the game, won by Mrs. Roy Brown, was a corsage bouquet of pink rose buds.

An elegant collation was served after the game with crimson and white center baskets of confections on each table. Assisting in the hospitalities were Mrs. Frank Michaels, Misses Mary Alice Culhan, Jean Fitzgerald, the young son of the house, Harold, and the little daughter Helen, looking very sweet in her white frock and pink sash.

Mrs. Rodecker was wearing an elaborate gown of blue and white striped lace voile, sprayed with pink rose buds, and with trimmings of black velvet and pompadour ribbon.

Mrs. Hicks wore a pretty gown of white dotted voile, with bodice girdle of pink satin and the flounces of the skirt bound with pink satin.

Mr. N. S. Barnett, son of Mrs. Mattie Barnett and nephew of Mr. N. S. Barnett of this city, was married to Miss Delia Leatherbury, at the Presbyterian parsonage of Shawnee, Okla., last Saturday.

The announcement is being received with much interest by many Washington friends, who have never ceased to regret the removal of Mrs. Barnett and her sons from this city.

The bridegroom is now holding a responsible position as second cashier of the State National Bank of Shawnee and is active in business and social circles of Shawnee.

The bride is quite young, having graduated only this spring from Chicago University.

A merry picnic party at Rock Mills today included Misses Ada Woodward, Dorothy Fullerton and Marie Mobley, Messrs Edwards Hopkins, Fred Carpenter and Ralph Strobel.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS

WILL PRESIDE OVER THE OHIO SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION AT Z-NEVILLE

DR. W. G. CLIPPINGER

Not only is president of the Ohio Sunday-school Association, but also is president of Otterbein University, at Westerville, and was identified prominently with Sunday-school work for ten years before being elevated to the presidency. Dr. Clippinger will not come to the State Convention as a stranger, as he has spoken in twenty county, township and city conventions during the year, and has been in personal touch through correspondence and otherwise with all the work of the state. Dr. Clippinger is a member of the International Sunday-school Executive Committee and a member of the sub-committee on education.

NATIONALLY KNOWN MEN TO TELL OF SUNDAY-SCHOOL WORK

Sunday School workers throughout Ohio are receiving copies of the program for the Fifty-sixth State Sunday School Convention, which will be held at Zanesville, June 22, 23 and 24. These programs show the greatest variety of talent and many speakers of international reputation. Running through the program is the thought of the need for greater training on the part of officers and teachers. The program shows:

AUSTRIANS DROP BOMBS ON VENICE

London, June 9.—The famous city of Venice has been bombarded by Austrian aviators, who destroyed an Italian airship after an engagement.

The Vienna war office issued the following communication:

"A telegram from our naval commander states that naval flying machine L-47, Commander Bonfield and Observer Naval Cadet Von Strobel, successfully bombarded Venice and dropped bombs on a balloon shed at Murano, two miles northeast of Venice, and also on an enemy torpedo boat destroyer."

Another official communication tells of the destruction of an Italian airship by an Austrian aeroplane. It says: "The Italian airship Clitta di Ferrara, returning from Fiume, was attacked, set on fire and destroyed by our naval aeroplane L-48, commanded by Lieutenant Glasling and with Naval Cadet Von Fritsch as observer. Two officers and five men of the crew were captured."

The big battle in Galicia has not yet reached a decision. The Austro-Germans, having crossed the Dniester south of Lemberg, have assumed the offensive farther to the south, and according to the Austrian official report have succeeded in pushing the Russians back between Kolomea and Katusz, in eastern Galicia. The investment of Lemberg is imminent.

The French are considered to have been very successful in what they have recently undertaken. North of Arras they have gained additional ground and north of the Aisne have repulsed four German counter attacks and extended their previous gains. On the other hand, the Germans claim to have repulsed some of the French attacks north of Arras and to the north of Soissons, the scene of the Germans' last important victory in the west.

On the Italo-Austrian frontier there are indications that a big battle is imminent, if it has not already begun, along the Isonzo river, where the Italians apparently have decided to launch their principal attack. The Italian cavalry have already crossed the river at one point.

HIS SPEECH WAS SHORT.

It Was Also Right to the Point, and the Jury Did the Rest.

A Chicago lawyer tells of a prosecuting attorney in a circuit court of an Illinois county some years ago whose early education had been defective, but who was so shrewd and "long headed" that few more dangerous antagonists could be found at the bar in that region.

At one time he had procured the indictment of a man for theft. The amount alleged to have been stolen was $5, and at that time the penalty for stealing $5 or more was imprisonment at hard labor in the penitentiary. For stealing less than that amount the punishment was confinement in the county jail without labor.

The evidence proved beyond dispute the theft of a five dollar note of the State Bank of Illinois, but the prisoner's counsel brought several business men to swear that it was not worth its face value in gold, but all agreed that in ordinary transactions it would pass for $5.

Over this testimony the prisoner's counsel quibbled for two hours while the prosecuting attorney listened in patience.

When his turn came he arose and delivered himself as follows:

"Gentlemen, I hope the learned counsel won't get offended if I don't talk but just one minute. All I've got to say is this: The prisoner don't pretend to deny that he stole our money, and all he asks of you is just to give him the privilege of stealin' it at a discount!"

He sat down, and the jury sent the thief to the penitentiary.—Case and Comment.

tires give you their mileage on the road—not in adjustments. The best evidence of this is the fact that in 1914 the total adjustments on Kelly-Springfield tires were less than 1% of sales. In the rare cases where they are required, adjustments are now made on the basis of the following very liberal mileage:

TECHNIC OF PAINTING.

Modern Color Methods and Those of the Old Masters.

Many persons think that the paintings by the old masters owe their permanency in some degree to secret processes now lost. In the Journal of the Franklin Institute Dr. Maximilian Toch points out that as a matter of fact the old masters used only those few colors (madder, for example) the permanency of which was well established, and that they avoided mixing colors known to have a bad chemical effect on one another.

Incidentally he describes the scientific methods of detecting later day copies. Zinc white, where flake white would have been used, protoplasmic remains in the cells of the wood used for the picture and the transparency of the bitumen in the shadows are proofs that a picture is not a genuine antique. In respect to deterioration the author mentions the bad effects of smoke and modern gas fumes and, after saying that either light or darkness may bleach a picture, points out that some pictures that have been kept in the dark can be restored by placing them in bright sunlight.

Finally Dr. Toch condemns those modern painters who substitute the collapsible tube or palette knife for the brush on the ground that the flakes of color thus attached to the canvas will crack off and become detached. If that method had been used by the ancients no trace of their work would now exist.

The Heroines of Novels.

If I were his Satanic majesty and a novelist came to me for judgment I should beetle my brows in a horrible manner and quiz him thus:

"Did you ever make your heroine eighteen years old? Did you ever endow a maiden with the repartee of Pinero, the intuition of Blavatsky, the carriage of Garden, the hauteur of the Medici, the beauty of Aphrodite and the wisdom of Athene—all at the age of eighteen years?"

If the novelist answered me "Certainly not!" I should say, "To heaven with you!" But if he answered, "Sure, I did!" I would blast him where he stood.

For of all the iniquitous, fallacious, unfair and dangerous doctrines this takes the icing off the cake—that the female species reaches her apogee at the immature age of eighteen.—George Weston in Saturday Evening Post.

Reward of Writers.

Writers of nonfiction today seldom fare more handsomely than did Chief Justice John Marshall, who, 110 years ago, received $60,000 for his life of Washington. After Stevenson's death the royalties on his books amounted every year to ten times the sum he had received a few years before.

BUMPER CROPS ASSURED THROUGHOUT PROLIFIC OHIO

The following summary of crop conditions in Ohio is made by the State Agricultural Commission:
The approaching wheat harvest gives promise of a most abundant yield. Correspondents estimate present prospect at 99 percent. This average is based upon 15 bushels per acre, being represented by 100 percent. On the corresponding date one year ago prospect was estimated at 103 percent, and the harvest resulted in an estimated production of approximately 29,000,000 bushels. The estimated area to be harvested this year exceeds the acreage of 1914 by almost 173,000 acres. The total production should equal, if not exceed, that of last year. In the Northwest and Northeast sections of the state the prospects will average 107 percent. These sections contain some of the best wheat producing counties of the state. In the south-west and the southeast sections of the state the prospect averages 95 percent. As stated, in previous reports, issued by this Department, Ohio cannot produce normal wheat yields until the acreage seeded is materially increased. The present average price, per bushel of wheat, is estimated at $1.43. One year ago the average price was 93 cents per bushel.
The recent rainfalls have proven very beneficial to oats. Its growing condition is good and the prospect for the harvest is estimated at 92 percent, compared with normal yield. One year ago the prospect was estimated at 83 per cent. The present acreage exceeds that of last year. The market price of oats is estimated at 56 cents per bushel. One year ago oats sold at 44 cents per bushel. Timothy prospect is below an average. The report shows 80 percent compared with normal yield. The clover has been slightly damaged by grub worm. Hogs, generally, are in healthy condition. At this time the danger period for fruit of all kinds has passed. Peaches promise one of the largest crops in years, the northeastern part of the state alone having suffered any serious injury. The cherry crop will approach very closely the large crop of 1914. In the southern half of the state fire blight is general and has seriously affected the apple crop. In many orchards the blossoms were attacked and total loss has resulted. This trouble is not as serious in the northern portion of the state. A fair crop is assured.

CHINESE EDIBLE DOGS.

They Are Fed Mainly Upon Daintily Prepared Vegetable Food.
English bon vivants have tested the merits of the Chinese edible dog, and they pronounce it very good dog indeed.
The dog is destined from the beginning for the table. Like the edible rat of the same country, it is fed mainly upon vegetable food, which is often delicately prepared and specially devised, in order to give the dog's flesh a peculiar flavor and aroma. The result is something quite different from the flesh of the ordinary dog of the western world.
The genuine Chinese edible dog is known by its bluish black tongue, which is a peculiar mark of its variety. In infancy and early youth the dog's tongue is red, and upon reaching maturity and the edible age it suddenly becomes black, sometimes within two weeks.
Another peculiarity of this dog is its lack of the barking faculty. It is said that the dog can bark, and on occasions does so, but these occasions are rare.
Many experiments, most of them unwilling, were made with the flesh of dogs during the Paris siege. Newfoundland and St. Bernards were preferred, under the mistaken impression that they would prove more eatable than other varieties. They proved to be detestable in all cases.—Every Week.

CORK TREES OF SPAIN.

How They Are Stripped of Their Bark at Ten Year Intervals.
An important industry in Spain is the cultivation of cork trees. This tree is an oak which grows best in the poorest soil. It cannot endure frost and must have sea air and also some altitude. It is found all along the coast of Spain, the northern coast of Africa and the northern shores of the Mediterranean.
There are two barks, the outer of which is stripped for use. The cork is valuable according as it is soft and velvety. When the sapling has reached the age of ten years it is stripped of its outer bark for two feet from the ground. The tree will then be about five inches in diameter and about six feet up to the branches. This stripping is worthless. The inner bark appears blood red, and if it is split or injured the tree dies.
When eight or ten years more have elapsed the outer bark has again grown, and then the tree is stripped four feet from the roots. This stripping is very coarse and is used to make floats for fish nets. Every ten years thereafter the bark is stripped, each year two feet higher up, until the tree is forty or fifty years old, when it is in its prime, and may then be stripped every ten years from the ground to the branches.—Exchange.

LOSSES ARE 258,009 MEN

By Associated Press.

London, June 9. — Premier Asquith announced in the House of Commons today that the total of British casualties from the beginning of the war to May 31 was 258,009 men in killed, wounded and missing. Unofficial dispatches from Geneva say the Russians have won a victory in eastern Galicia, checking the Austrians and Germans along the Dnieper.

Italian authorities announce the loss of a dirigible, which caught fire after an attack on Siume. It is declared the crew probably has been captured by Austrians.

The Turks claim the allies have lost another transport at the Dardanelles.

RUSS ARMY IS CUT OFF

By Associated Press.

Cologne, Germany, June 9. — A dispatch from Austrian press headquarters says that the Russian army in Bukovina, which has been strengthened by portions of the detachments already defeated at Kalusz, eastern Galicia, has been finally cut off from the middle Galician forces of the Russians and is being driven back eastward.

The advance of the armies of General Linsingen and other generals is proceeding by forced marches.

GERMAN SUB. DESTROYED

London, June 9. — Official announcement was made today by the secretary of the Admiralty that a German submarine had been sunk and 6 officers and 21 members of her crew had been captured.

PRISON BOARD REFUSES ACTION IN FRANK CASE

By Associated Press.

Atlanta, Ga., June 9. — The Georgia Prison Commission today declined to recommend to Governor Slaton a commutation of the death sentence of Leo M. Frank, convicted of the murder of Mary Phagan.

The commission's decision is not binding on the governor, who, it was intimated, would conduct further hearings before making his decision.

STANISLAU CAPTURED

By Associated Press.

Berlin, June 9. — The Galician town of Stanislaw has been captured by the Austrians, according to the official statement issued by the German army headquarters today. Stanislaw is 75 miles southeast of Lemberg, the Galician capital.

LAI TO REST WITH TOUCHING SERVICES

The Presbyterian church of Bloomingburg was filled to overflowing Tuesday afternoon when Rev. Kerr conducted impressive services over all that was mortal of Mrs. Samuel Stuckey.

The minister paid a beautiful tribute to the deceased and a quartet sang favorite hymns.

A long line of carriages formed in line for the Bloomingburg cemetery, where the interment was made.

secretary was making his last official call on the president but, nevertheless, the personal element was present.

Cordially, and without trace of feeling, the two men talked of the situation which resulted in Mr. Bryan's resignation. Each spoke dispassionately of the differences and his belief that the other was doing what he thought best for the United States. Those who saw them were touched with the regard the two men displayed for each other.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the president was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together for the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and clasped hands. "God bless you," said each as their hands touched.

Late today, after the note to Germany was on its way to Berlin, Mr. Bryan plans to issue from his home a statement outlining his position on the questions that have arisen on the relations between the United States and Germany.

M'COY PLEADS "NOT GUILTY"

Bert McCoy, one of the seven men alleged to be implicated in the chicken and corn stealing cases introduced into police court last week by a confession of Riley Justis, was taken before the mayor Wednesday morning and entered a plea of not guilty. His case was set for trial June 16.

The case of McCoy is the last of those arrested to be disposed of. Other arrests are expected to follow.

A local grocery firm is said to have received the stolen chickens from the gang. More than a thousand chickens, it is said, have been stolen and disposed of since the holidays and a bill of sale in the hands of attorneys shows that more than 1,000 pounds of chickens has been transferred from the grocery named to a local packing house since April first.

WOMAN CAUSES HER HUSBAND'S ARREST

Bert Mitchell was fined $50 and sentenced to 60 days in the workhouse in the court of Justice of the Peace T. N. Craig Wednesday morning after pleading guilty to a charge of assault and battery preferred by his wife. Mitchell was allowed to return to his home and work and the sentence will be allowed to hang over him as an incentive to future good behavior.

Mitchell and his wife live in the old John Rowe schoolhouse about two miles from the city off the Greenfield pike, and Mitchell is employed by Ed Darlington whose property he tenants. The Mitchells have been married eleven years and have five small children.

Mitchell's wife first appeared in court Monday and told a shocking story of the abuse she alleged her husband subjected her to throughout the eleven years of their wedded life. She charged that he frequently abused her, often striking her. Mitchell was arrested Monday and arraigned before Judge Craig. At that time he pleaded not guilty and denied his wife's accusations.

CURRENT TURNED ON IN SOUTH SOLON

The electric current—the first ever reaching South Solon, was turned on Wednesday afternoon at one o'clock, and the street lights will be turned on tonight.

There are 20 of the lights for street lighting, and quite a number of citizens are to have their homes and places of business lighted.

The current is furnished by the power plant in this city.

BRYAN ISSUES STATEMENT ON RESIGNATION

Investigation By Interational Commission and Warning to Americans Not to Travel on Belligerent Vessels Carrying Munitions Was Desired By Bryan.

STATEMENT OF FORMER PREMIER IS ISSUED LATE THIS AFTERNOON

Declares "It Is Very One-sided Citizenship That Compels Government to Go to War Over Citizens' Rights and Yet Relieve Citizens of All Obligations"—Touching Scene When President and Bryan Say Farewell—Firm Friendship Still Exists—Gravity of Foreign Situation Looms Big—Resignation Was Tendered Last Saturday.

By Associated Press.

Washington, June 9. — Secretary Bryan's personal statement on the reason for his resignation, issued this afternoon, contends the difficulties between Germany and the United States should be investigated by an international commission and that Americans should be warned to keep off belligerent ships or those carrying ammunition through the danger zone.

At the White House Secretary Tumulty stated positively that no comment would be made on Mr. Bryan's statement.

Just after two o'clock this afternoon the new American note to Germany, which caused the cabinet crisis culminating in Secretary Bryan's resignation, started on its way to Berlin. It will be given out for publication in morning papers of Friday.

Simultaneously William Jennings Bryan's resignation as secretary of state took effect and he gave out a statement of his attitude. His statement reads in part:

MR. BRYAN'S STATEMENT.

"My reason for resigning is clearly stated in my letter of resignation; namely, that I may employ, as a private citizen, the means which the president does not feel at liberty to employ.

"Two of the points on which we differ, each conscientious in his conviction, are, first, as to the suggestion of investigation by an international commission and, second as to warning Americans against traveling on belligerent vessels with cargoes of ammunition.

"I believe that this nation should frankly state to Germany that we are willing to apply in this case the principles which we are bound by treaty to apply to disputes between the United States and thirty countries with which we have made treaties, providing for investigation of all disputes of every character and nature. These treaties, negotiated under this administration, make war practically impossible between this country and these governments representing nearly three fourths of all the people of the world.

"No treaty was actually entered into with Germany, but I cannot see that that should stand in the way when both nations endorsed the principle. I do not know whether Germany would accept the offer, but our country should, in my judgment, make the offer.

The second point of difference is as to the course which should be pursued in regard to Americans traveling on belligerent ships or with cargoes of ammunition. Why should an American citizen be permitted to involve his country in war by traveling upon a belligerent ship when he knows that the ship will pass through a danger zone.

"IT IS A VERY ONE SIDED CITIZENSHIP THAT COMPELS A GOVERNMENT TO GO TO WAR OVER A CITIZEN'S RIGHTS AND YET RELIEVES THE CITIZENS OF ALL OBLIGATIONS TO CONSIDER HIS NATION'S WELFARE.

"I do not know just how far the president can legally go in actually preventing Americans from traveling on belligerent ships, but even if the government could not legally prevent citizens from traveling on belligerent ships it could and in my judgment, should earnestly advise American citizens not to risk themselves or the peace of their country, and I have no doubt that these warnings would be heeded.

"I think, too, that American passenger ships should be prohibited from carrying ammunition. The lives of passengers ought not to be endangered by cargoes of ammunition, whether that danger comes from possible explosions from within or from possible attacks from without. PASSENGERS AND AMMUNITION SHOULD NOT TRAVEL TOGETHER."

Washington, June 9.—After two years and three months as secretary of state of the United States—a little more than half of the Wilson administration — William Jennings Bryan today returned to private life. His departure from the cabinet under sensational circumstances, because he could not join in the approval of the note to Germany or reconcile its principles to the cause which he declared to be nearest his heart—"The prevention of war"—developed today not only a most unusual situation in the domestic politics of the United States but a grave turn in its foreign policy.

Staunch in his advocacy of peace and firmly set against any communication to Germany which might involve the United States in war, Mr. Bryan found himself opposed not only by the president but by a majority of the members of the cabinet in the methods of dealing with the situation.

The president, in his letter expressing regret over Mr. Bryan's resignation, said he was not separating himself from Mr. Bryan in the objects sought in the present crisis, but only in the method by which they were accomplished.

Mr. Wilson and his advisers are equally anxious to prevent war, but in asserting the rights of the United States they hold it absolutely necessary to affirm the American position in such a way as to leave no doubt abroad of the firm intention of the United States to enforce its rights if necessary to secure protection for American citizens on the high seas.

Officials and diplomatists who have followed the situation closely pointed out that the president stood with Mr. Bryan in the doing of everything possible to prevent war, but believed it necessary also to be ready for any eventualities in case Germany refused to acquiesce in the American point of view as to neutral rights on the high seas and continued her attacks on American lives and vessels.

Through his friends it is learned that Mr. Bryan intends to continue his political support of the president.

The note to Germany should reach Ambassador Gerard the latter part of this week for presentation to the German Foreign Office. An answer is not expected from the German Foreign Office for at least a week there, after.

Secretary Bryan was the recipient of many telegrams expressing regret for his resignation and commending him for the manner in which he submitted it. His resignation was unexpected in official and diplomatic Washington generally. Twice before, it is now known, Mr. Bryan was willing to place before the president his resignation, but each time the president succeeded in bringing the secretary to his own point of view.

Washington, June 9.—Mr. Bryan told his colleagues and friends today as they gathered about him in farewell, that his affection for President Wilson was unchanged, and that he knew the president felt as warmly toward him.

Firmly believing he can advance the cause of peace outside of official life and build up a sentiment in the United States that will assist the president in maintaining friendly relations with all nations, Mr. Bryan today went back to private life.

The resignation of the secretary of state of the United States over a difference of a vital question of foreign policy—itsself unusual in the annals of American history—was most dramatically touched by numerous manifestations of personal regard for Mr. Bryan and his own emotion at leaving the office he held so dearly.

Tears stood in his eyes while friends commended his courageous fight for principles and his determination to eliminate himself rather than continue in the cabinet as a possible embarrassment to the president.

The story of his fight to sway the president's judgment on the method of dealing with the situation with Germany is as yet untold. For three days, from Saturday until Monday, the president had Mr. Bryan's resignation under consideration.

Reports that Secretary Daniels had resigned, or would do so, were current today but were flatly denied on all sides. The report, it was said, grew out of the well known friendship and long intimacy in national politics of Mr. Bryan and Mr. Daniels. As a matter of fact, nine members of the cabinet stood solidly for the president's position as expressed in the note. Mr. Daniels was with those who differed from the secretary of state.

This afternoon Mr. Bryan called at the White House. For 15 minutes the president and Mr. Bryan talked, exchanging words of farewell. The

SECRETARY BRYAN RESIGNS POST RATHER THAN SIGN GERMAN NOTE; WILSON, DETERMINED, ACCEPTS

BRYAN'S LETTER OF RESIGNATION DELIVERED TO PRESIDENT WILSON

"My Dear Mr. President:

"It is with sincere regret that I have reached the conclusion that I should return to you the commission of secretary of state, with which you honored me at the beginning of your administration.

"Obedience to your sense of duty and actuated by the highest motives, you have prepared for transmission to the German government a note in which I cannot join without violating what I deem to be an obligation to my country, and the issue involved is of such moment that to remain a member of the cabinet would be as unfair to you as it would be to the cause which is nearest my heart, namely, the prevention of war.

"I, therefore, respectfully tender my resignation, to take effect when this note is sent, unless you prefer an earlier hour.

"Alike desirous of reaching a peaceful solution of the problem arising out of the use of submarines against merchantmen, we find ourselves differing irreconcilably as to the methods which should be employed.

"It falls to your lot to speak officially for the nation; I consider it to be none the less my duty as a private citizen to promote the end which you have in view, by means which you do not feel at liberty to use.

"In severing the intimate and pleasant relations which have existed between us during the past two years, permit me to acknowledge the profound satisfaction which it has given me to be associated with you in the important work which has come before the state department, and to thank you for the courtesies extended.

"With the heartiest good wishes for your personal welfare and for the success of your administration, I am, my dear Mr. President,

"Very truly yours,

"WILLIAM J. BRYAN."

WILSON ACCEPTS PROMPTLY, BUT SORROWFULLY

"My Dear Mr. Bryan:

"I accept your resignation only because you insist upon its acceptance; and I accept it with much more than deep regret, with a feeling of personal sorrow. Our two years of close association have been very delightful to me. Our judgments have accorded practically in every matter of official duty and of public policy until now; your support of the work and purposes of the administration has been generous and loyal beyond praise; your devotion to the duties of your great office and your eagerness to take advantage of every great opportunity for service it offered, has been an example to the rest of us; you have earned our affectionate admiration and friendship. Even now we are not separated in the object we seek, but only in the method by which we seek it.

"It is for these reasons my feeling about your retirement from the secretaryship of state goes so much deeper than regret. I sincerely deplore it. Our objects are the same and we ought to pursue them together. I yield to your desire only because I must, and wish to bid you Godspeed in the parting. We shall continue to work for the same causes even when we do not work in the same way.

"With affectionate regard, sincerely yours,

"WOODROW WILSON."

SECRETARY WOULD AVERT WAR

States He Retires From Office Because He Is Not Able Conscientiously to Sign the Communication Which the Chief Magistrate Is About to Dispatch to Berlin—Holds Attachment of His Signature to Note Would Be Unfair to Cause Nearest His Heart, "the Prevention of War."

Washington, June 9.—William J. Bryan has resigned as secretary of state and his resignation has been accepted by President Wilson, to take effect today.

Mr. Bryan retires from the Wilson administration because he is not able conscientiously to sign the note which the president is about to dispatch to Germany. To attach his signature to this communication would, in the opinion of Mr. Bryan, be unfair to the cause nearest his heart—namely, the prevention of war.

At the direction of President Wilson, Robert Lansing, acting secretary of state, has signed the note. It has been rushed into the hands of state department experts to be coded and is now on its way to Berlin.

The note to which Mr. Bryan was unable to subscribe firmly restates the position of the United States, reiterates President Wilson's previous demands, and calls upon Germany for a prompt expression whether or not she intends to abide by the principles of international law.

Four developments stand out impressively among those which Washington believes will come from the day's remarkable occurrence: First, that the country will be divided on the question of President Wilson's policy toward Germany; second, that there will be a real awakening in Germany to the determination of the president and the seriousness of the situation confronting them as a result of this government's demands; third, that there will likely be a split in the Democratic party, and fourth, that there will be a change in the administration's general foreign policy to vigorous assertion of American rights.

Many officials in Washington also expect to see a clean cut issue between President Wilson and Mr. Bryan on the question of the national defenses, with the probable retirement of Josephus Daniels, Mr. Bryan's friend, from the cabinet as secretary of the navy.

Effect on National Crisis.

Startling as was the withdrawal of Mr. Bryan from the administration, it was the effect of this action upon the immediate crisis between the United States and Germany over which Washington officials are chiefly concerned.

One sentence in Mr. Bryan's letter of resignation to the president was puzzling. This sentence read:

"Obedient to your sense of duty and actuated by the highest motives, you have prepared for transmission to the German government a note in which

BRYAN RESIGNS

I can not join without violating what I deem to be an obligation to my country, and the issue involved is of such moment that to remain a member of the cabinet would be as unfair to you as it would be to the cause which is nearest my heart, namely, the prevention of war."

In some quarters this sentence was construed as a plain intimation that Secretary Bryan feared that one of the possibilities of the note, which President Wilson has ordered forwarded to Germany is war. The other construction was that Secretary Bryan feared that his acquiescence in the president's refusal to discuss the Lusitania facts with the Berlin government would be a death blow to arbitration principles for which Mr. Bryan has contended and which he has embodied in twenty peace treaties with foreign governments.

While the correspondence between the president and Mr. Bryan is marked with the utmost cordiality on the president's part, in fact with manifestations of deep regret and sorrow, there was one sentence in Secretary Bryan's letter which indicates that he will not hesitate to use all means at his command to prevent a rupture with Germany. The inference seems to be that Mr. Bryan would throw the weight of his great personal power against any such contingency.

Serious Phase of Resignation.

On the other hand, President Wilson makes it plain that he has accepted Secretary Bryan's resignation only because Mr. Bryan has insisted, and that he expects the co-operation of Mr. Bryan in accomplishing not only this government's present object with Germany, but the other policies of the administration. These are the president's exact words: "We shall continue to work for the same causes even when we do not work in the same way."

The most serious phase of the Bryan resignation, so far as it affects the German situation, seems to be the possibility of dividing the country in regard to President Wilson's policy. The fear expressed in Washington is that Mr. Bryan's stand will give rise to a difference of opinion in regard to the president's note. Such a division will, of course, not only add to President Wilson's tribulations, but will greatly weaken the strength of this government's representations in Germany.

Many of Mr. Bryan's friends are already busy. Representative Buchanan of Illinois has undertaken to line or organized labor up against any possibility of war with Germany, and other supporters of Mr. Bryan are at work in other directions. Of course, if Germany feels that the United States is divided against itself on this issue, the Berlin authorities will be certain to adopt a less conciliatory course.

On the other hand, the retirement of Mr. Bryan is sure to create a profound impression in Berlin. Official reports received here recently have indicated that the kaiser's advisers were not averse to the seriousness of the controversy with the United States. The retirement of Secretary Bryan will throw a flood of light upon the determination of President Wilson and is bound to have a good effect unless a feeling against the administration's course immediately asserts itself in this country.

Bryan's Influence.

Bryan's retirement was said to be due to his overthrow as a force in shaping the administration's foreign policy. Whatever may be said of President Wilson's disposition to conduct his administration in his own way, Mr. Bryan's influence has operated powerfully in determining the policy of this government until recently. Mr. Bryan as an adviser on foreign affairs has been superseded by Secretary of War Garrison and Secretary of the Interior Lane. These are the two members of the cabinet who have from the start asserted the necessity of pursuing a vigorous policy not only with regard to Germany, but in the case of Mexico. They have encountered the opposition of Mr. Bryan from the start. There have been many tests of strength in the cabinet. The president has seemed at times to oscillate between one group and the other, but with the arising of the German situation he took his stand firmly on the side of those who favor a vigorous assertion of what he believed to be America's rights.

PEACE-LOVING CABINET MEMBER WHO RESIGNED

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN.

When this stand of the president became known it seemed certain that the parting of the ways between Mr. Bryan and Mr. Wilson must come eventually. The only thing which surprised Washington was that it came so soon and that Mr. Bryan selected as the occasion for his retirement a great crisis in the affairs of the American government.

The difference between Secretary Bryan and the president began even before the dispatch of the president's first note to Germany. When the Falaba case first arose, Mr. Bryan was in favor of applying the principles embodied in his peace treaties of investigating the facts through a commission. The president opposed this suggestion, and later the issue was joined when all of Germany's submarine offenses came before the cabinet to be made the basis of a single note.

MR. LANSING TAKES HOLD

Washington, June 9.—Robert Lansing of New York, counselor of the state department, will continue as acting secretary, at least until the diplomatic interchanges with Germany are concluded. Mr. Lansing for years represented the United States in intricate international disputes, and is looked upon as one of the foremost authorities on international law in the country. His first appointment as counsel for the United States was in March, 1892, two years after his marriage to Miss Eleanor Foster, daughter of John W. Foster, secretary of state under President Harrison. Mr. Lansing was then made associate counsel for this government in the Bering sea fur seal arbitration.

Mr. Lansing was counsel for the Mexican and Chinese legations in Washington in 1894 and 1895, and in 1896 Secretary of State Olney selected him as counsel for the United States before the Bering sea claims commission. He represented private interests before the Canadian joint high commission in 1898 and 1899, and in 1900 and 1901 he was again counsel for the Mexican and Chinese legations. Mr. Lansing went to London in 1903 to represent the United States before the Alaskan boundary commission, and in 1905 he represented private parties in the Venezuelan asphalt disputes. Then came his retention as counsel for this government in the Atlantic fisheries arbitration at The Hague. He was a government delegate to the fur seal conference in Washington in 1911. Just before his elevation to his present post he was in Washington as agent for this government before the American-British claims arbitration tribunal.

FINDINGS AGAINST PROBATE JUDGE

Columbus, June 9.—Findings for recovery aggregating $3,120 are made against Probate and Juvenile Judge Roland W. Baggott of Montgomery county in a report of State Examiner T. W. Jones and his assistant, Robert Dummerth, made public by the state bureau of accounting. The examination covers a period between March 1, 1913, and March 31, 1915. Proof of fines paid in juvenile cases, but not listed on any records kept by Judge Baggott, is alleged for $2,603 of the total findings, and $492 is for a horse, carriage and harness which he sold to county commissioners in 1911, while holding the position of probate judge.

DATES BACK TO FALABA DIFFICULTY

Washington, June 9.—Prediction is made that the break between President Wilson and Secretary Bryan will project itself far into the politics of the future. Republican leaders declare it will result in as wide a breach in the Democratic party as the circumstance that led to the downfall of the Republicans in 1912.

Mr. Wilson and Mr. Bryan came together as a result of one of those happenings in politics that sometimes unite men mutually antagonistic in habit, thought and principle. The final separation of the two men is equally dramatic, coming as it does at a time when an international crisis threatens, and portending for a certainty a desperate contest between determined men and factions.

No one in Washington doubts that from this time forth Mr. Bryan will speak his mind freely. Democratic leaders here admit that Mr. Bryan has a large personal following. They will not be surprised if Mr. Bryan is a candidate for the presidential nomination with "peace and prohibition" as his issues.

Secretary Bryan explained to representatives of the press, who were received by him at his home, that the differences between himself and the president as to the policy to be pursued in dealing with Germany dated back to the sinking of the Falaba. He insisted that differences were purely as to the matter of policy and that there were no political differences, and intimated that he saw no reason for any political differences to grow out of the incident.

Mr. Bryan explained that he would make a detailed formal statement of the points of difference between himself and the president as soon as the note to Germany is dispatched. He was asked whether other cabinet members were opposed to the form of the note, and said that he did not care to discuss that and asked that the question be withdrawn. He added that he could not speak for other members of the cabinet.

Mr. Bryan said his statement would make everything clear. He said that he and the president had realized for some time that the matter would end as it has, that the differences of policy were irreconcilable. "The president has done what he was compelled to do believing as he did," said the secretary. "I don't see how he could have done otherwise, believing as he did. We were both striving for the same thing. We differed only as to the methods to be employed."

Mr. Bryan was asked what his plans were, and he said he had made none for the present, that he would remain in Washington for some time. The

Mr. Bryan's Resignation

The resignation of Mr. Bryan as Secretary of State did not come as an entire surprise to those who have watched closely the developments of the discussion with Germany following the sinking of the Lusitania.

Both President Wilson and Mr. Bryan are peace advocates, the latter being perhaps more pronounced in his views than the former.

There is no difference between the president and Mr. Bryan as to the ultimate purpose. The notes exchanged are exceedingly cordial, and bear abundant evidence of the high purposes and the friendly feeling of the two statesmen, as well as the high regard each holds for the other.

There is no doubt of Mr. Bryan's intention to support the administration in its efforts to bring about a peaceful solution of the problems which now confront it.

It is only a difference as to the means to be adopted to bring about the end sought—ultimate peace—which has caused Mr. Bryan to resign from the cabinet.

The whole matter seems plain in view of this paragraph in Mr. Bryan's letter to the president:

"It falls to your lot to speak officially for the nation. I consider it to be none the less my duty to endeavor as a private citizen to promote the end which you have in view, by means which you do not feel at liberty to use."

The services which Mr. Bryan has contributed to the achievements of the present administration have been of great value and, feeling that he cannot agree with the means to be employed now in the efforts to bring about a peaceful solution of the controversy with Germany, it is better for the nation, better for the administration and will tend more toward the accomplishment of the end desired by both the president and Mr. Bryan, for the latter to work in his own way, than it would be to surrender his own views and to allow his own energies to remain dormant.

Mr. Bryan can now work for a peaceful solution according to his own ideas and assist the administration in bringing about the desired ends by resort to means which the president does not "feel at liberty to use," and which Mr. Bryan could not use either if he remained a member of the cabinet.

The administration in the work of the hour retains, rather than loses, Mr. Bryan's assistance. Both men have sacrificed their personal desires to public duty. Each remains true to his principles and both will work in different ways to bring about the end desired by both and by the great majority of Americans.

Donahey Was Too 'Previous.'

When Governor Willis asserted that one announcement given to the public by State Auditor Donahey was a little "previous" he was entirely justified by the facts.

The governor is going to San Francisco as the representative of the state of Ohio at the big exposition. It is entirely proper that the chief executive should visit the big show out on the Pacific Coast and that he should do so in his official capacity. The state of Ohio should be represented at the exposition—it should be officially represented. That feature of the duty Ohio owes to the exposition might be, in a measure, provided for by the commission, which the state has created to assist in the exposition management and to look after the Ohio buildings and exhibits.

There is yet another capacity in which the state should appear at the exposition and that is as a visitor and, if not the only way in which that duty can be discharged, certainly the only proper way is for the chief executive of the state to officially visit the exposition.

While the people do not want that official visit to be unappropriately showy and costly, they do not want it to be a "two by four" affair that would make Ohio appear cheap and penurious. The people of the state want the chief executive to visit the fair and to make the trip in a manner fitting the mission and the occasion and have made provision to meet the expenses.

It cannot be presumed that Governor Willis has any intention of converting an official visit to the exposition into a political junket for his own private benefit and in publicly admonishing the governor that he must not do so the state auditor not only was decidedly "previous," but exhibited a personal animosity or jealousy which will not meet with the approval of the people of the state.

State Auditor Donahey has done and is doing many good things in the interest of the people and it is to be regretted that he, in this instance, has so far overstepped the limits of his jurisdiction as to cast a cloud of suspicion on his heretofore clear claim of good intentions.

The "break" of Mr. Donahey appears now to be the result of a bitter partisan feeling. His strength with the people of the state is largely due to the impression that the state auditor was not controlled by any partisan feeling in his official work.

Poetry For Today

UP-HILL.

Does the road wind uphill all the day?
Yes, to the very end.
Will the day's journey take the whole long day?
From morn to night, my friend.

But is there for the night a resting place?
A roof for when the slow, dark hours begin.
May not the darkness hide it from my face?
You cannot miss that inn.

Shall I meet other wayfarers at night?
Those who have gone before.
Then must I knock, or call when just in sight?
They will not keep you standing at that door.

Shall I find comfort, travel-sore and weak
Of labor you shall find the sum.
Will there be bed for me and all who weak?
Yes, beds for all who come.

Luke McLuke Says

Some people are so certain that salvation is free that they never think of putting anything in the collection box when it is passed around in church.
The first time a woman marries she wants a prince who lives in a castle and looks like a Greek god. But the second time she marries she wants an ordinary human being who is a good provider.

After a bride has been married long enough to know how to turn a pork chop into a clinker by frying it in a skillet she wants to sit down and write a cook book and make some publisher wealthy.

If some of the young men could hear the way some of the princesses sass their mothers around the house the young men would remain single for a mighty long time.

One reason why wives are called better halves is because they usually have a hard time digging up a quarter.

Every time a man picks up a woman's magazine and looks at the fashion plate he decides that if his wife ever got so she looked like that he would trade her off for a nickel's worth of stogies.

Another reason for the alarming number of unhappy marriages is that too many girls get hitched up before they are fully competent to support a husband.

Some men do not know enough about quitting, and some men know too much about it.

Every now and then you see a girl who gives you the impression that she was in such a big hurry to grab the powder rag that she forgot all about grabbing the wash rag.

A woman will fasten on two big brass earrings, and hang a two pound copper chain and a string of glass pearls around her neck and slip four big bracelets on her arms and six tin rings on her fingers. Then she will go to church and contribute a dime to enlighten the poor heathens who have so little sense that they wear wire rings in their noses.

MELODY DEAFNESS.

To Those Who Are Afflicted With It Music Is Simply Noise.

Every one has heard of color blindness, but few people are aware that there is such a malady as tune deafness. It prevents those affected from appreciating music, which to the melody deaf is nothing but noise.

The most intelligent people often suffer in this way. Empress Catherine of Russia used to declare that for her music was a nerve trying din, and Napoleon I. hated any form of melody. Victor Hugo had to be coaxed by the composer who put his famous lines to music. "Are not my verses," he used to say, "sufficiently harmonious to stand without the assistance of disagreeable noises?"

Doctors say that the power to appreciate music depends upon a perfect combination of the nerves and brain. Some people's nerves readily carry musical sounds to the mind, while in others nerves impede their passage to the brain cells.

Good musicians are more often born than made. Nature has provided them with nerves which instinctively carry musical chords to the brain. That is why a good musician can memorize a tune after hearing it played over once. Every note has been clearly recorded in his brain.

Those with less sensitive musical nerves receive a dull impression of any music they may hear, and thus they are unable to remember it unless it is drummed into their brain by repeated playing.—Pearson's Weekly.

Ingenious Air Bombs.

Bombs thrown from the air are usually exploded by contact. With the Martin Hale bomb, designed specially to be dropped from aeroplanes, there is a "safety pin" which renders the bomb harmless until it has been withdrawn and until a fall of about 200 feet through the air has caused the propeller to rotate and release the firing mechanism. All destructive explosives cause damage by the actual shock of the explosion—that is, by the disturbance in the air created by the expansion of the contents of the shell, by the fragments of the shell or the bullets which it contains flying in all directions, by the fumes which may be given off on explosion and which may have a stupefying or fatal effect on people in the vicinity and by the falling of bricks and mortar displaced by the bombs.—London Mail.

English as She Is Spoke.

The professor who in his address on the correct pronunciation of English said he preferred "ofn" to "often" is on the winning side. No "pronouncing dictionary" with a reputation to lose ever sounds the "t" in the middle of such words as Christmas, mistletoe, ostler, often or chestnut. Good actors, whose duty it is to speak "trippingly on the tongue," can cite authority to support their pronunciation of hankerchief and We'n'sday. And no one who knows his way about in the elocutionary field pays any regard to the spelling of such words as "extraordinary."—London Chronicle.

GOOD JOBS FOR THE RIGHT MEN

State wide examinations are to be held by the State Civil Service Commission on the 22nd, 23rd, 24th, 25th and 26th of June, for the position of Inspector, to be employed by the State Highway Department.

For the purpose of saving expense for the candidates who desire to take this examination, it will be held in different parts of the state, at nine o'clock a. m.: on Tuesday, June 22, at Toledo, Steubenville, Zanesville and Portsmouth; at the same hour on Wednesday, June 23, in Lima, Mansfield, Canton and Gallipolis; on Thursday, June 24 examinations will be held at Tiffin, Dayton, Youngstown, Athens and Columbus; on June 25, at Cincinnati, Marion, Marietta and Cleveland; on June 26 at Washington C. H.

The State has been divided into districts and candidates may take the examination at the point most convenient and easily reached, but those receiving passing grades will be eligible for appointment only in the District in which they reside.

The pay of the position is from $3.00 to $4.00 per day, and candidates should have some experience in road building or inspection of same. A number of appointments are to be made.

Candidates desiring to take this examination should address the State Civil Service Commission at Columbus for proper application blanks, which must be filed at least three days before date of examination.

Candidates from this section of the state are assigned in District No. 3, which consists of the following counties: Adams, Brown, Butler, Clermont, Clinton, Fayette, Greene, Highland, Hamilton, Montgomery, Preble and Warren.

PROVISIONS OF THE BLACK WILL

The last will and testament of Mrs. Mary Black, has been filed for record in the local probate court, and E. J. Light is executor of the estate. The original will was made July, 1908, and a codicil bears date of October, 1909. The late home of the deceased is given to Mrs. Callie Walton. A piano, watch and chains and library also were given to Mrs. Walton.

A bed room suit and diamond earring are given to Ella Gault; one earring, portraits and opera glasses to Helen Robinson. Certain silverware and china are divided among Mrs. Walton, Ella Gault and Helen Robinson.

By the terms of the original will Ella Gault, Helen Black and Callie Walton each receive $400 in cash, and under the codicil Ella Gault is given $1,000 in cash, Ella Millet $200 and Helen Robinson $400.

BOOSTERS SPREAD THE GLAD TIDINGS ABROAD

Boosters for the Y. M. C. A. matinee races to be held June 17, occupying several automobiles, visited a number of surrounding towns Tuesday evening, tacking up banners and posters and making curbstone speeches proclaiming the event forthcoming.

Some changes were made in the plans of the boosters. The band which was to have accompanied them could not be secured at the last moment, but the trip was highly successful nevertheless. Jeffersonville, Good Hope, Greenfield, Bloomingburg, Mt. Sterling and Madison Mills were visited. The boosters were divided into two or three parties, each covering different territory.

The original plan of making night trips has been abandoned. It is probable, however, that another trip will be made this week, about Friday.

BIG STEAM SHOVEL "EATING UP" STREET

The big steam shovel, in operation on Washington avenue, is opening the eyes of local citizens as to just how rapidly excavating work for street paving may be completed.

Three or four dips of the big shovel fill a wagon and the rapidity with which the shovel is manipulated is almost unbelievable.

Crowds of citizens have been watching the operations.

NO PRIMARY FOR TOWNSHIP OFFICIALS

It has been discovered in an official communication from the state supervisor of elections that there will be no primary elections in the townships for township officers.

Any person may be nominated in the township for any office by securing a sufficient number of signers for their petition. These names of persons so nominated, will be placed upon the official ballot in the November election without any party designation and the electorate may choose from the list those for whom it desires to vote. The petitions do not have to be filed until sixty days before the election, which will be early in September.

Township and ward assessors must be nominated in the county and city this fall also, and in Chillicothe these assessors are considered as municipal officers, so they come within the primary law and their time expires on June 10th.—Chillicothe Gazette.

PETTY THIEVES AT WORK NEAR JEFFERSONVILLE

A set of new harness, valued at $20, was stolen Sunday night from the barn of Roy Allen, residing on the Jamestown pike, near Jeffersonville. The incident is merely one of a series of petty thefts which have been taking place in that vicinity during the last few days.

Friday some bed sheets were stolen from the Lemm home, near Mr. Allen's, and a number of other articles have been missed by persons living in that neighborhood. The same thief or thieves are supposed to have committed all of the thefts but the victims have no inkling of his identity.

OBTAINING AUTOS FOR BIBLE CLASS

A canvass of the membership of the Men's Bible Class of Grace church reveals the fact that there are some 75 automobiles owned by members of the class, and the committee arranging for the trip to Greenfield Sunday afternoon, June 27th, when a joint session of the classes will be held in that city, is busy calling on the members owning machines, with the result that nearly every one of those approached has enthusiastically responded, and the work is moving forward very nicely.

Those who have not yet been approached can aid the committee by voluntarily offering their machines, notifying either C. E. Lloyd, Scott Hopkins or B. E. Kelley.

It is expected that 50 to 75 machines will be in line for the trip. The Greenfield class comes to this city Sunday afternoon, June 20th.

Misses Elizabeth and Harriette Allen delightfully entertained the Junior Queen Esther society with a Kensington, Tuesday afternoon.

The rooms were decked with large bowls of pink and white peonies and roses, a pink and white color scheme being carried out. After a delightful hour merrily hemming towels for the Olive Hill school, the girls were served with a delicious summer collation.

Victrola music added to the entertainment of the afternoon.

Assisting were Mrs. Allen, Mrs. J. A. Johnson and Mrs. Ed Pine, Sunday school teacher.

The attractive home of Mrs. Harry Rodecker, with its connecting rooms, well adapted to entertaining, was gayly enfeet Tuesday afternoon when Mrs. Rodecker and Mrs. Warren Hicks charmingly entertained twelve tables of players with the popular diversion of auction bridge.

Throughout the interior of the home a veritable wealth of roses, crimson, white and pink, in baskets, bowls and vases, bore testimony that June, the month of roses, was here.

FRIDAY, JUNE 11, IS DeLaval Service Day AT OUR STORE

For the benefit of our many customers and users of De Laval Separators Cream we have established a DE LAVAL SERVICE DAY.

On this date we shall be glad to have any De Laval user bring his separator to our store for a complete and careful inspection and adjustment, which will be made free of charge. Should any parts, due to unusual wear or accident, need to be replaced, this will be done, the only charge being for the price of the new parts used. No charge will be made for the service.

WILL PRESIDE OVER THE OHIO SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION AT Z- NESVILLE

DR. W. G. CLIPPINGER

Not only is president of the Ohio Sunday-school Association, but also is president of Otterbein University, at Westerville, and was identified prominently with Sunday-school work for ten years before being elevated to the presidency. Dr. Clippinger will not come to the State Convention as a stranger, as he has spoken in twenty county, township and city conventions during the year, and has been in personal touch through correspondence and otherwise with all the work of the state. Dr. Clippinger is a member of the International Sunday-school Executive Committee and a member of the sub-committee on education.

NATIONALLY KNOWN MEN TO TELL OF SUNDAY-SCHOOL WORK

Sunday School workers throughout Ohio are receiving copies of the program for the Fifty-sixth State Sunday School Convention, which will be held at Zanesville, June 22, 23 and 24. These programs show the greatest variety of talent and many speakers of international reputation. Running through the program is the thought of the need for greater training on the part of officers and teachers. The program shows:

AUSTRIANS DROP BOMBS ON VENICE

London, June 9.—The famous city of Venice has been bombarded by Austrian aviators, who destroyed an Italian airship after an engagement.

The Vienna war office issued the following communication:

"A telegram from our naval commander states that naval flying machine L-47, Commander Bonfield and Observer Naval Cadet Von Strobel, successfully bombarded Venice and dropped bombs on a balloon shed at Murano, two miles northeast of Venice, and also on an enemy torpedo boat destroyer."

Another official communication tells of the destruction of an Italian airship by an Austrian aeroplane. It says: "The Italian airship Clitta di Ferrara, returning from Fiume, was attacked, set on fire and destroyed by our naval aeroplane L-48, commanded by Lieutenant Glasing and with Naval Cadet Von Fritsch as observer. Two officers and five men of the crew were captured."

The big battle in Galicia has not yet reached a decision. The Austro-Germans, having crossed the Dniester south of Lemberg, have assumed the offensive farther to the south, and according to the Austrian official report have succeeded in pushing the Russians back between Kolomena and Kuzus, in eastern Galicia. The investment of Lemberg is imminent.

The French are considered to have been very successful in what they have recently undertaken. North of Arras they have gained additional ground and north of the Aisne have repulsed four German counter attacks and extended their previous gains. On the other hand, the Germans claim to have repulsed some of the French attacks north of Arras and to the north of Soissons, the scene of the Germans' last important victory in the west.

On the Italo-Austrian frontier there are indications that a big battle is imminent, if it has not already begun, along the Isonzo river, where the Italians apparently have decided to launch their principal attack. The Italian cavalry have already crossed the river at one point.

HIS SPEECH WAS SHORT.

It Was Also Right to the Point, and the Jury Did the Rest.

A Chicago lawyer tells of a prosecuting attorney in a circuit court of an Illinois county some years ago whose early education had been defective, but who was so shrewd and "long headed" that few more dangerous antagonists could be found at the bar in that region.

At one time he had procured the indictment of a man for theft. The amount alleged to have been stolen was $5, and at that time the penalty for stealing $5 or more was imprisonment at hard labor in the penitentiary. For stealing less than that amount the punishment was confinement in the county jail without labor.

The evidence proved beyond dispute the theft of a five dollar note of the State Bank of Illinois, but the prisoner's counsel brought several business men to swear that it was not worth its face value in gold, but all agreed that in ordinary transactions it would pass for $5.

Over this testimony the prisoner's counsel quibbled for two hours while the prosecuting attorney listened in patience.

When his turn came he arose and delivered himself as follows:

"Gentlemen, I hope the learned counsel won't get offended if I don't talk but just one minute. All I've got to say is this: The prisoner don't pretend to deny that he stole our money, and all he asks of us is just to give him the privilege of stealin' it at a discount!"

He sat down, and the jury sent the thief to the penitentiary.—Case and Comment.

tires give you their mileage on the road—not in adjustments. The best evidence of this is the fact that in 1914 the total adjustments on Kelly-Springfield tires were less than 1% of sales. In the rare cases where they are required, adjustments are now made on the basis of the following very liberal mileage:

Plain tread, 5,000 miles; Kant Slip, 6,000 miles.
In Ford sizes, plain tread, 6,000 miles; Kant Slip, 7,500 miles.

TECHNIC OF PAINTING.

Modern Color Methods and Those of the Old Masters.

Many persons think that the paintings by the old masters owe their permanency in some degree to secret processes now lost. In the Journal of the Franklin Institute Dr. Maximilian Toch points out that as a matter of fact the old masters used only those few colors (madder, for example) the permanency of which was well established, and that they avoided mixing colors known to have a bad chemical effect on one another.

Incidentally he describes the scientific methods of detecting later day copies. Zinc white, where flake white would have been used, protoplasmic remains in the cells of the wood used for the picture and the transparency of the bitumen in the shadows are proofs that a picture is not a genuine antique. In respect to deterioration the author mentions the bad effects of smoke and modern gas fumes and, after saying that either light or darkness may bleach a picture, points out that some pictures that have been kept in the dark can be restored by placing them in bright sunlight.

Finally Dr. Toch condemns those modern painters who substitute the collapsible tube or palette knife for the brush on the ground that the flakes of color thus attached to the canvas will crack off and become detached. If that method had been used by the ancients no trace of their work would now exist.

The Heroines of Novels.

If I were his Satanic majesty and a novelist came to me for judgment I should beetle my brows in a horrible manner and quiz him thus:

"Did you ever make your heroine eighteen years old? Did you ever endow a maiden with the repartee of Pinero, the intuition of Blavatsky, the carriage of Garden, the hauteur of the Medici, the beauty of Aphrodite and the wisdom of Athens—all at the age of eighteen years?"

If the novelist answered me "Certainly not!" I should say, "To heaven with you!" But if he answered, "Sure, I did!" I would blast him where he stood.

For of all the iniquitous, fallacious, unfair and dangerous doctrines this takes the icing off the cake—that the female species reaches her apogee at the immature age of eighteen.—George Weston in Saturday Evening Post.

Reward of Writers.

Writers of nonfiction today seldom fare more handsomely than did Chief Justice John Marshall, who, 110 years ago, received $60,000 for his life of Washington. After Stevenson's death the royalties on his books amounted every year to ten times the sum he had received a few years before.

Misses Elizabeth and Harriette Allen delightfully entertained the Junior Queen Esther society with a Kensington, Tuesday afternoon.

The rooms were decked with large bowls of pink and white peonies and roses, a pink and white color scheme being carried out. After a delightful hour merrily hemming towels for the Olive Hill school, the girls were served with a delicious summer collation.

Victrola music added to the entertainment of the afternoon.

Assisting were Mrs. Allen, Mrs. J. A. Johnson and Mrs. Ed Pine, Sunday school teacher.

The attractive home of Mrs. Harry Rodecker, with its connecting rooms, well adapted to entertaining, was gayly enfeet Tuesday afternoon when Mrs. Rodecker and Mrs. Warren Hicks charmingly entertained twelve tables of players with the popular diversion of auction bridge.

Throughout the exterior of the home a veritable wealth of roses, crimson, white and pink, in baskets, bowls and vases, bore testimony that June, the month of roses, was here.

FRIDAY, JUNE 11, IS DeLaval Service Day AT OUR STORE

For the benefit of our many customers and users of De Laval Separators Cream we have established a DE LAVAL SERVICE DAY.

On this date we shall be glad to have any De Laval user bring his separator to our store for a complete and careful inspection and adjustment, which will be made free of charge. Should any parts, due to unusual wear or accident, need to be replaced, this will be done, the only charge being for the price of the new parts used. No charge will be made for the service.

A De Laval service man will be with us to assist with the work. Bring in your De Laval Separator and receive the benefit of his advice on the care and operation of the machine, as well as the free service. It is our wish, and that of the De Laval Company, that every user of a De Laval Separator get the Maximum of efficiency at a minimum of cost, and we therefore urge you to avail yourself of this free and useful service.

Come early and avoid delays.

BUMPER CROPS ASSURED THROUGHOUT PROLIFIC OHIO

The following summary of crop conditions in Ohio is made by the State Agricultural Commission:

The approaching wheat harvest gives promise of a most abundant yield. Correspondents estimate present prospect at 99 percent. This average is based upon 15 bushels per acre, being represented by 100 percent. On the corresponding date one year ago prospect was estimated at 103 percent, and the harvest resulted in an estimated production of approximately 29,000,000 bushels. The estimated area to be harvested this year exceeds the acreage of 1914 by almost 173,000 acres. The total production should equal, if not exceed, that of last year. In the Northwest and Northeast sections of the state the prospects will average 107 percent. These sections contain some of the best wheat producing counties of the state. In the southwest and the southeast sections of the state the prospect averages 95 percent. As stated, in previous reports, issued by this Department, Ohio cannot produce normal wheat yields until the acreage seeded is materially increased. The present average price, per bushel of wheat, is estimated at $1.43. One year ago the average price was 93 cents per bushel.

The recent rainfalls have proven very beneficial to oats. Its growing condition is good and the prospect for the harvest is estimated at 92 percent compared with normal yield. One year ago the prospect was estimated at 83 per cent. The present acreage exceeds that of last year. The market price of oats is estimated at 50 cents per bushel. One year ago oats sold at 44 cents per bushel.

Timothy prospect is below average. The report shows 80 percent compared with normal yield.

The clover has been slightly damaged by grub worm.

Hogs, generally, are in healthy condition.

At this time the danger period for fruit of all kinds has passed. Peaches promise one of the largest crops in years, the northeastern part of the state alone having suffered any serious injury. The cherry crop will approach very closely the large crop of 1914. In the southern half of the state fire blight is general and has seriously affected the apple crop. In many orchards the blossoms were attacked and total loss has resulted. This trouble is not as serious in the northern portion of the state. A fair crop is assured.

CHINESE EDIBLE DOGS.

They Are Fed Mainly Upon Daintily Prepared Vegetable Food.

English bon vivants have tested the merits of the Chinese edible dog, and they pronounce it very good dog indeed.

The dog is destined from the beginning for the table. Like the edible rat of the same country, it is fed mainly upon vegetable food, which is often delicately prepared and specially devised, in order to give the dog's flesh a peculiar flavor and aroma. The result is something quite different from the flesh of the ordinary dog of the western world.

The genuine Chinese edible dog is known by its bluish black tongue, which is a peculiar mark of its variety. In infancy and early youth the dog's tongue is red, and upon reaching maturity and the edible age it suddenly becomes black, sometimes within two weeks.

Another peculiarity of this dog is its lack of the barking faculty. It is said that the dog can bark, and on occasions does so, but these occasions are rare.

Many experiments, most of them unwilling, were made with the flesh of dogs during the Paris siege. Newfoundland and St. Bernards were preferred, under the mistaken impression that they would prove more eatable than other varieties. They proved to be detestable in all cases.—Every Week.

CORK TREES OF SPAIN.

How They Are Stripped of Their Bark at Ten Year Intervals.

An important industry in Spain is the cultivation of cork trees. This tree is an oak which grows best in the poorest soil. It cannot endure frost and must have sea air and also some altitude. It is found all along the coast of Spain, the northern coast of Africa and the northern shores of the Mediterranean.

There are two barks, the outer of which is stripped for use. The cork is valuable according as it is soft and velvety. When the sapling has reached the age of ten years it is stripped of its outer bark for two feet from the ground. The tree will then be about five inches in diameter and about six feet up to the branches. This stripping is worthless. The inner bark appears blood red, and if it is split or injured the tree dies.

When eight or ten years more have elapsed the outer bark has again grown, and then the tree is stripped four feet from the roots. This stripping is very coarse and is used to make floats for fish nets. Every ten years thereafter the bark is stripped, each year two feet higher up, until the tree is forty or fifty years old, when it is in its prime, and may then be stripped every ten years from the ground to the branches.—Exchange.

For a prize to "the most popular" in town a trip to Europe seems to have lost its charm.

POTATO CHIPS

Ask your grocer for "PURITY SARATOGA POTATO CHIPS" made by Charles R. Dalbey and handled by all grocers. Manufactured daily from pure lard. They are Fresh, Crisp and Delicious and have that real "nutty flavor." Insist on your grocer supplying you with "DALBEY CHIPS" which for nine years have been sold here.

Royal Kisses.

The kings and high officials of Europe when they meet always embrace and kiss each other, no matter what their relations have been in the past or may be in the immediate future. This is a kiss of respect. It may be given on the lips, the cheek, the brow or the beard and is nicely adjusted, according to the age and rank of the giver. From this close personal contact it passes through many forms—kissing the hand, parts of the clothing and even the ground trodden upon, according to the idea of respect or fear inspiring the one who performs the act. The nations of the west have not adopted this ancient custom as a form of salutation, but have reserved it for the more tender relationships of life.—Christian Herald.

Dumas and His Porthos.

Dumas, like Balzac, was fond of his own creations. Among them all he loved Porthos best. The great, strong, vain hero was a child after his own heart. One afternoon, it is related, he found Dumas careworn, wretched, overwhelmed. "What has happened to you? Are you ill?" asked Dumas. "No," replied Dumas. "Well, what is it then?" "I am miserable." "Why?" "This morning I killed Porthos—poor Porthos! Oh, what trouble I have had to make up my mind to do it! But there must be an end to all things. Yet when I saw him sink beneath the ruins, crying, 'It is too heavy, too heavy for me!' I swear to you that I cried!" And he wiped away a tear with the sleeve of his dressing gown.

An Old Indian Drum.

The Sioux Indians formerly had a conjurer's drum, which they called wakanchachagna. It was used on religious and ceremonial occasions, had two heads frequently decorated with crude pictures of animals, and was beaten with great vigor for the purpose of appeasing the wrath of their offended deities or of contributing to the recovery of the sick.

Africa.

Africa is the most elevated of all the continents. It is the "continent of plateaus." The great tableland in the south has a mean altitude of over 3,500 feet. The wide tableland on the north has an average elevation of about 1,300 feet.

Impossible.

"Can't you play tennis without making all that noise?"
"Why, how can you expect us to play it without raising a racket?"—Baltimore American.

Excluded.

Ascum—Well, well! I congratulate you, old man. And how is the baby to be named? Popley—By my wife's people. It seems.—Exchange.

Switzerland is a bright and peaceful oasis in the desert of the war zones, but the war zones are not offering special facilities to tourists. Discussion of Peary's discovery of the north pole is on the scientific program. Peace hath her victories, but the prelude to this victory will probably suggest a "state of war."

College statistics show that 52 per cent of the women graduates are married eight years after graduation. There is no difference in the marriage rate among graduates of coeducational colleges and of women's colleges.

BRYAN ISSUES STATEMENT

secretary was making his last official call on the president but, nevertheless, the personal element was present.

Cordially, and without trace of feeling, the two men talked of the situation which resulted in Mr. Bryan's resignation. Each spoke dispassionately of the differences and his belief that the other was doing what he thought best for the United States. Those who saw them were touched with the regard the two men displayed for each other.

Finally Mr. Bryan remarked that he knew the president was a busy man and that he would not detain him longer. The two men, who have stood together for the last two years in one crisis after another, rose to their feet simultaneously and clasped hands. "God bless you," said each as their hands touched.

Late today, after the note to Germany was on its way to Berlin, Mr. Bryan plans to issue from his home a statement outlining his position on the questions that have arisen on the relations between the United States and Germany.

LOSSES ARE 258,009 MEN

By Associated Press.

London, June 9. — Premier Asquith announced in the House of Commons today that the total of British casualties from the beginning of the war to May 31 was 258,009 men in killed, wounded and missing. Unofficial dispatches from Geneva say the Russians have won a victory in eastern Galicia, checking the Austrians and Germans along the Dniester.

Italian authorities announce the loss of a dirigible, which caught fire after an attack on Siume. It is declared the crew probably has been captured by Austrians.

The Turks claim the allies have lost another transport at the Dardanelles.

RUSS ARMY IS CUT OFF

By Associated Press.

Cologne, Germany, June 9. — A dispatch from Austrian press headquarters says that the Russian army in Bukovina, which has been strengthened by portions of the detachments already defeated at Kalusz, eastern Galicia, has been finally cut off from the middle Galician forces of the Russians and is being driven back eastward.

The advance of the armies of General Linsingen and other generals is proceeding by forced marches.

GERMAN SUB. DESTROYED

London, June 9. — Official announcement was made today by the secretary of the Admiralty that a German submarine had been sunk and 6 officers and 21 members of her crew had been captured.

PRISON BOARD REFUSES ACTION IN FRANK CASE

By Associated Press.

Atlanta, Ga., June 9. — The Georgia Prison Commission today declined to recommend to Governor Slaton a commutation of the death sentence of Leo M. Frank, convicted of the murder of Mary Phagan.

The commission's decision is not binding on the governor, who, it was hinted, would conduct further hearings before making his decision.

STANISLAU CAPTURED

By Associated Press.

Berlin, June 9. — The Galician town of Stanislau has been captured by the Austrians, according to the official statement issued by the German army headquarters today. Stanislau is 75 miles southeast of Lemberg, the Galician capital.

LAI TO REST WITH TOUCHING SERVICES

The Presbyterian church of Bloomingburg was filled to overflowing Tuesday afternoon when Rev. Kerr conducted impressive services over all that was mortal of Mrs. Samuel Stuckey.

The minister paid a beautiful tribute to the deceased and a quartet sang favorite hymns.

A long line of carriages formed in line for the Bloomingburg cemetery, where the interment was made.

M'COY PLEADS "NOT GUILTY"

Bert McCoy, one of the seven men alleged to be implicated in the chicken and corn stealing cases introduced into police court last week by a confession of Riley Justis, was taken before the mayor Wednesday morning and entered a plea of not guilty. His case was set for trial June 16.

The case of McCoy is the last of those arrested to be disposed of. Other arrests are expected to follow.

A local grocery firm is said to have received the stolen chickens from the gang. More than a thousand chickens, it is said, have been stolen and disposed of since the holidays and a bill of sale in the hands of attorneys shows that more than 1,000 pounds of chickens has been transferred from the grocery named to a local packing house since April first.

WOMAN CAUSES HER HUSBAND'S ARREST

Bert Mitchell was fined $50 and sentenced to 60 days in the workhouse in the court of Justice of the Peace T. N. Craig Wednesday morning after pleading guilty to a charge of assault and battery preferred by his wife. Mitchell was allowed to return to his home and work and the sentence will be allowed to hang over him as an incentive to future good behavior.

Mitchell and his wife live in the old John Rowe schoolhouse about two miles from the city off the Greenfield pike, and Mitchell is employed by Ed Darlington whose property he tenants. The Mitchells have been married eleven years and have five small children.

Mitchell's wife first appeared in court Monday and told a shocking story of the abuse she alleged her husband subjected her to throughout the eleven years of their wedded life. She charged that he frequently abused her, often striking her. Mitchell was arrested Monday and arraigned before Judge Craig. At that time he pleaded not guilty and denied his wife's accusations.

CURRENT TURNED ON IN SOUTH SOLON

The electric current—the first ever reaching South Solon, was turned on Wednesday afternoon at one o'clock, and the street lights will be turned on tonight.

There are 20 of the lights for street lighting, and quite a number of citizens are to have their homes and places of business lighted.

The current is furnished by the power plant in this city.

FUNERAL SERVICES LARGELY ATTENDED

The funeral services of Mr. Samuel Van Pelt, held at the residence above Bloomingburg, Tuesday afternoon, were very largely attended, from all over Fayette county.

Rev. Thomas of the M. E. church of Bloomingburg conducted the services. Interment was made in the Bloomingburg cemetery.
